

“I am a mother! You have kids too! Why did you have to beat up our kids?! Please retreat! It's enough!”

A mother stands between riot police and frontline protesters and pleads tearfully for them to stop shooting unarmed youngsters. Despite that, the riot police ignored her and continued shooting rubber bullets in close proximity.

“I would take a bullet for you, would you go on a strike to express our demands?”

Frontline protestors call for a strike to express their demands.

6.
12

You
Why
beat ease
ough!"

ntline
top shooting
olice ignored
n close range.

ake a bullet
ould YOU
rike to express
nds?"

calls

你願意能上
表達訴求嗎？

Frontline protestors call for support of HongKongers to strike as a peaceful and safe means to support the cause.

6.
15

R.I.P. Mr. Le

Mr. Leung stood for some hours with protest banners in the scorching heat and fell to his death. By ignoring the demands of the marchers, the government pushed the f

calls

ke as

means

Leung

st banners on top of a building, climbed over ring the voices of 1.03M Hong Kongers who
the first victim off a building.

